Please share your name and one identity people might not know you have (ex: Are you a ninja? Vegan?) Please also share a one-word reaction to Daryl Davis' talk.

How do you identify racially and ethnically? What one or two things would you want others to know about your racial or ethnic group?

- How does Daryl Davis' presentation relate to our current moment? How does it relate to our local community, our state, and/or our country?
- If a member of the KKK started to talk with you, would you continue the conversation? Why or why not?
- Have you connected with someone different from you and had your eyes opened to things you didn't know about? What did you learn? What did you do?
- Have you connected with someone different from you and realized you aren't so different - that you share experiences or hopes? What did you learn? What did you do?

Library customers have asked HCLS to help them learn about racial equity issues and how to address them. These 'dessert' questions help us best serve the community. We ask those who are able and comfortable to type their responses in the chat as well as discuss them.

If you want to learn and act more for racial equity, what would help?

Do you want more educational programming and events from the Library on these topics? Please pick yes, maybe or not really.
